Roy Quilor, Designer

CV

Introduction
My name is Roy Quilor, and I'm a designer with a passion for the web, CSS and HTML.

In 2003, I graduated from Westminster University with a degree in BSC Multimedia Computing. I worked in retail, then joined a small creative studio.

After, I became a freelancer for two years, worked with agencies and my own clients. Then I worked full time in software company for five years creating digital asset management systems. I've have taken a year out.

Contact
Email: roy@quilor.com
Web: quilor.com
Twitter: @royquilor

Education
University of Westminster, BSC, Multimedia Computing, 2001 - 2003.

Hammersmith & West London College HND Multimedia Computing, 1999 - 2001.

Skills
Design with a focus on web keeping it simple. Front-end development with a focus on CSS and SCSS, HTML, Git. Experience in jQuery, XSL, PHP, Jekyll.

Projects and Employment

North Plains (2009–2014)
Projects with Diageo, Distell, Fox Sports Asia, Lowe, Nokia, Nestlé, Shell, Virgin Holidays.

Diageo Smartbrand (North Plains)
Research, design, prototype. Work with project managers, developers, clients to deliver the project. IE7+ support.

Shell (North Plains)
CSS and HTML. IE7+ support.

Wave2 (North Plains)
Print module. Learn the technology, help integrate into our system. Work with clients and third parties to provide training.

Fox Sports Asia (North Plains)
Front end development and critique for mobile responsive design. IE7+ support.

Freelance Designer (2007–2009)
Design projects with agencies TLC Marketing and Winona eSolutions.

Xeuku Ltd (2006–2007)
Assisted in the management and production of graphic presentations.